CARGO SUPERINTENDENT

For our Antwerp office, we are looking for a Cargo Superintendent whose main duties will be to prepare stowage plans for breakbulk and project cargoes, supervise the loading of our vessels in various European ports and provide maritime expertise to various departments. A vital link between the ship and the shore, the ideal candidate has deck officer's experience on (break)bulk carriers, preferably with a Master degree. He/ she has sound knowledge of and experience with:

- ≡ Stowage and securing of steel and breakbulk cargoes
- ≡ Technical aspects of shiploading, including strength and stability calculations
- ≡ IMSBC-Code and other relevant international rules and regulations.

The successful candidate will travel frequently, be able to work independently, and be fluent in Dutch and English. French and German are considered an asset.

The candidate must be familiar with the operational aspect of international shipping.

If you are interested in a challenging, fast-paced, and motivating career, you may be the right person for this job.
